Back in the 1980s, the National Garden Bureau worked with 23 co-sponsoring national horticultural organizations to legislate National Garden Week, and in 1986 President Reagan signed the Proclamation. In 2002, the National Gardening Association resolved to extend the celebration to encompass the entire month of April.

IN-PERSON PROGRAM

Writers' Workshop with Award-Winning Author, Shirley

Hailstock

Saturday, April 11 from 2:30 PM—3:30 PM

The Synopsis—Just Write It

This workshop will cover the mechanics of writing the synopsis. It will include a how-to demonstration on what goes into the synopsis, how to construct one and how to keep the editor reading. Whether you're a plotter or a seat-of-the-pants author, you can write a synopsis before you write the book.

Register online: <https://waynepubliclibrary.libcal.com/event/15634595>

For info, contact Janette Pardo at: pardoj@waynepubliclibrary.org or call 973-694-4272 x5102

Shirley Hailstock loves reading. She'd like nothing better than to find a corner in the library and get lost in a book, explore new worlds and visit places she never expected to see. Now as an author, she can not only visit those places, but she can be the heroine of her own stories. A past president of Romance Writers of America, Shirley began her writing career on a dare. Taking a year to complete her first manuscript, the writing bug bit her and she discovered telling stories of love and adventure was what she wanted to spend her life doing.

Margaret Buckley

Thursday, April 9 @ 11:00 AM

Margaret Buckley lived in Pequannock for 22 years. She worked at the Riverdale Library and taught at the Classical Academy Charter School in Clifton. She currently lives in Delaware with her husband. Ice Cream Town is her first book. Her next book, Dino Town, is coming out in the fall of 2026.

The Zoom link is located on the online calendar at:
<https://waynepubliclibrary.libcal.com/event/15577179>

A. Maria Harcas

Tuesday, April 28 @ 2:00 PM

A. Maria Harcas is a retired educator turned content marketing writer and editor with a passion for storytelling. Her author journey took a new direction with her novel, Miranda—Strength, Love, and Second Chances: A Feminist's Journey to Rediscovery which began as a short story and evolved into a full-length book exploring the challenges and triumphs of starting over later in life. Much like her protagonist, Ms. Harcas knows mid-life reinvention firsthand—after many years of divorce, she found love again and launched her writing business in 2016.

The Zoom link is located on the online calendar at: <https://waynepubliclibrary.libcal.com/event/15125464>

Elaine Insinnia

Monday, May 4 @ 7:00 PM

Elaine Insinnia taught middle school Language Arts for thirty-six years, co-authored The Great Debate Project and Educators Take Charge, and her plays won the Tennessee Williams Literary Festival and the Premiere Stages New Play contest. She's a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators, the Dramatists Guild, NEA and NJEA, and is an avid tennis player.
